Dear Dr. Stout:

Yesterday I was baking and when I pulled out the cookie sheet out of the oven my potholder slipped and my thumb and part of my hand was on a sheet where the temperature was 450 degrees. I immediately thought of the Elasto-Gel I had in the freezer. I put it on without putting my hand under cold water. I was so pleased, because the burning suddenly ceased and after being applied for six hours I removed the dressing.

The very next day I had no burning at all not even when using soaps and there was not a blister.

I am very pleased with the product and I certainly recommend this product for burns.

Sincerely,

Sandra K. Howader
